HELLO FROM CRAIG CASHION

GENERAL MANAGER

Welcome to 2025

I hope you have all had a wonderful break with family and friends and are excited as we are for another amazing year.

Firstly, a sincere thank you to our incredible customers for your ongoing support. Our aim is to prioritise your success, and we hope our teams continue to add value every day to your business. Without you we wouldn't be here, and we never take for granted the trust you put in our people to help you achieve your goals, again thank you so much.

Looking back on 2024, like every year, it threw up its challenges and opportunities. Our region continues to strengthen, and our communities never cease to amaze how they come together to support each other through adversity. Our company continues to support through our Community Chest program where we contributed to over 225 groups in the last year, something we are very proud of. On the front of our stores we say "Proudly Supporting our Local Communities" we take that responsibility very seriously and will continue to do so.

In July we reintroduced our Trade Expo for our customers and had a lot of fun on the night giving away around $150K in prizes. This event was always designed as a thank you for our customers and we sincerely hope we achieved that.

Our focus for this year is to continue working hard to be your supplier of choice through our amazing team. We will look for innovation through new products and services that will help your business grow and invest in our people so they themselves can also keep growing as individuals and a team.

Again, thank you so very much for your support. You have our commitment we will strive to improve in everything we do.

Consider it done!

Craig

The Latin word for window is fenestra, and can also be translated as "hole in the wall," "loop hole," "opening for light," or "opportunity." Makes sense, when you think about the silly saying, "If a door closes and another doesn't open, go out the window!"

SAFETY MATTERS

5 Major Hazards in the Workplace

Hazard 1: Falls

Falls consistently account for over a third of construction industry deaths each year. The falls are often due to unstable working surfaces, failure to use or misuse of fall prevention equipment, as well as the unsafe use of ladders and scaffolding.

Hazard 2: Struck by Objects

The next major cause of death on construction sites is "being struck by objects" and this accounts for close to 10 percent of construction site deaths.

Hazard 3: Electrical Hazards

The dangers that electricity poses have been known for a long time, however electrical safety issues still account for more than 8 percent of construction site deaths. Always locate and identify utilities before any work commences.

Hazard 4: Caught In-Between

The caught in-between fatalities account for 7 percent of construction fatalities with most of the deaths occurring due to the collapse of construction site trenches.

Hazard 5: Hazardous Materials

Construction sites are often full of hazardous materials that can range from toxic airborne materials that may affect respiration to chemical spills that can release toxic fumes or burn.

Protecting workers requires being knowledgeable of the possible risks and offering the training and equipment needed to make sure that they safely make it home from the job site. Knowing these 5 hazards can serve as a starting point as you develop a strategy for improving safety on your construction site.

Making 7-Star Possible

Building for 7-stars doesn't have to be costly or complicated. Simple design features and product selections make a big difference to energy efficiency and a home's energy rating.

Design Levers

Cladding alone cannot achieve a 7-star energy rating. A 7-star energy rating can only be achieved through a combination of design levers. We have identified the eight main levers and, based on our review of independent studies, ranked them from most to least influential.

1. Orientation

Most Influential

2. Windows

3. Shading

4. Insulation & Thermal mass

5. Wall Cavities

6. Ventilation

7. Reflectivity

8. Colour

Least Influential

See our Technical Resource Library for more information on ESG, Sustainability and 7-star.

It's Possible™ | jameshardie.com.au

©2024 James Hardie Australia Pty Ltd ABN 12 084 635 558. ™ and © denote a trademark or registered trademark owned by James Hardie Technology Ltd.

Case Study

An independent study looked at the cost of using Hardie™ exterior cladding products in achieving a 7-star rating versus brick veneer, autoclaved aerated concrete (AAC 75mm) and expanded polystyrene (EPS 75mm).

This study involved four house designs, two single and two double storey homes*. These were tested across eight different orientations and three different climate zones. We compared the cost of the external walls based on each house design and wall systems to achieve the 7-star rating.

* Note: double storey has brick veneer on bottom storey only and Hardie™ exterior cladding products on the top floor.

Findings

- ✓ Out of 12 simulated designs, the homes with Hardie™ exterior cladding were the most cost-effective alternative regardless of the orientation in 8 cases (excluding single storey EPS).
- ✓ On every double storey design, Hardie™ exterior cladding was a more economical alternative compared to brick veneer.
- ✓ AAC was estimated to be the most expensive design to achieve a
- ✓ 7-star rating, regardless of the orientation and number of storeys.
- ✓ All Hardie™ exterior cladding solutions are deemed non-combustible and fire resistant. Although EPS was the cheapest cladding solution in 4 out of 12 homes in the study, it is not classified as a non-combustible material.
- ✓ Hardie™ exterior cladding was shown to be the leading cost-effective solution for achieving 7-star home design, with the exception of the 4 out of 12 homes in the study where EPS was the cheapest cladding solution.
