SAFETY MATTERS

Heat Stress

Working in the heat can creep up quickly. Early signs include heavy sweating, dizziness, headaches, nausea, and muscle cramps. If you notice these symptoms in yourself or a work mate, act fast – get to shade, cool down, and hydrate with electrolytes.

PPE

Take Responsibility in protecting yourself from the sun. Wearing lightweight, breathable clothing, polarised sunglasses, and reapplying sunscreen reapplied throughout the day are great reminders you're being sun smart.

Hydration & Fuel

Dehydration is one of the biggest risks in hot conditions. Sweating causes your body to lose and drain electrolytes, it's important to replace both. Water alone isn't enough electrolytes to keep your body balanced. Remain hydrated and keep cool. Using a cooling towel on your neck may help to reduce heat related illnesses while working.

Work Environment

Use fans, vents, cooling systems for an increase in airflow where possible. Outdoors? Find shade and take adequate breaks. Pair those breaks with fluids and nutritious food to keep your energy levels up. Plan smart – schedule the hottest tasks for cooler times of day.

A message from our Safety Manager: Dan Barker

A new year brings new opportunities – to improve, innovate, and strengthen our safety culture. As we begin this year, let's challenge ourselves to work safer, smarter, and better than before.

Remember: "Safety is not about avoiding risk – it's about managing it together."

Our customers are also a key part of our safety success. We value your partnership and encourage you to speak up, raise concerns, and provide feedback so we can continue to improve and maintain a safe environment for everyone.

Together, let's make this year our safest and most successful yet. Look out for one another, stay alert, and keep safety at the heart of everything we do.
